ARMORED CARS CARRY POLICE IN GANG HUNT

Cruise Through New York To Check Activities of Gunmen.

16 MACHINES BEING USED

Campaign Under Way After Five Men Fall in Latest Shootings.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Sixteen police cars, each carrying four detectives armed with automatic shotguns cruised the city today to "meet with force" the gangsters responsible for the death of one and the wounding of two others in two more outbreaks yesterday.

The automobile squads swept out of a dozen police stations early last night and by midnight sent five men to hospitals, all suffering from bullet wounds. The five men were shot while attempting hold-ups last night, two by a patrolman, three others by one of the shotgun squads.

One Shooting in Brooklyn

The fatal shooting was in Brooklyn. The other was but a short distance from the Harlem neighborhood where one child was killed and four others shot on Tuesday.

The Brooklyn killing of Guido Ferreri, a mild-mannered youth who had no underworld connections, was blamed on racketeers by police.

In the second shooting, a large black touring car overtook a small roadster and eight men sent a salvo of revolver shots at two men in the roadster.

They gave their names as Joseph Gozola and Frank Christoforo. Both may die of their wounds.

Holdup Halted

Patrolman James MacFarland reported seeing three youths holding up a car. He fired. Anthony Rizzi, 19, was taken to a hospital, seriously wounded. A companion was slightly wounded and placed under arrest. The third escaped.

In Harlem, four shot gun squad detectives reported seeing three Negroes holding up a drug store. Twelve bullets sent the three to a hospital. One may die.

LIGHT RAIN DROPS TEMPERATURE HERE

Mercury Down Five Degrees
from Noon to 2 P. M.;
Tower Struck.

Marion's heat wave was temporarily broken by showers beginning at 1 p. m. today. The rain lasted only a short time, but dark clouds gave hope of a needed heavy rain here. For the last week Marion has been threatened with heavy rains and electrical storms which have done considerable damage in Marion county and surrounding counties. The rain brought slight relief from the heat. After receiving 40 showers after noon the mercury dropped to 84 at 2 p. m.

Lightning struck the American Insurance Union skyscraper in Columbus in a storm this morning, according to a United Press wire dispatch. A stone in the tower was dislodged, and fell 550 feet to the street where it wrecked the radiator of a parked automobile.

The Rocky Mountain region, after a siege of severe rainstorms, is facing a revival of heat waves. The storms caused three deaths and $500,000 estimated property damage.

The weather bureau has issued a forecast of partly cloudy tonight and Sunday, followed by thunder showers in western Ohio Sunday afternoon or night. Not much change in temperature has been promised.

Yesterday the sun pushed the mercury up to 93 here. A breeze last night made sleeping more comfortable, with the thermometer at 80. A year ago the high and low marks were 86 and 57.

Near Fort Defiance, New Mexico, three Navajo Indians drowned in a wall of water during a storm which laid waste an 80-mile square area. Associated Press dispatches reported today. A reservation diversion dam at Ganada, N. M., was washed away. It was estimated that $175,000 will be the cost of replacing the dam and repairing irrigation facilities.

By The Associated Press
CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 1.—Four more persons died here today from heat prostration, raising to eight the number of fatalities caused here in the last two days by the heat wave. Five other persons collapsed and were taken to hospitals.

By The Associated Press
MOSCOW, Aug. 1.—Civil aviation authorities were advised today that Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, Jr., round-the-world fliers made a forced landing today at Jelelgari, about 150 miles from Kustanaisk in the Caspian autonomous republic.

They came down at 8:30 a. m. Moscow time (12:30 a. m. Marion time), the message said.

Only sketchy details were available but these indicated that the Americans had landed on premises occupied by the Metal and Gold trust.

Officials here telegraphed representatives of the civil aviation society in that vicinity to give the fliers all possible assistance.

Subsequent messages said the airmen had departed from the direct route to Sverdlovsk and came down because of bad weather. They have been advised by telegraph to take off with a small quantity of fuel and fly to Kustanaisk or Omsk, about 450 miles away.

Kustanaisk is a little more than a thousand miles from Moscow and about 425 miles southwest of Omsk. It is some distance to the south of the trans-Siberian Railway line, about midway between Omsk and Ekaterinburg.

Slayer's Escape Attempt Foiled by Young Girl

By The Associated Press
ZANESVILLE, O., Aug. 1.—Little Charlotte Curtis, 13-year-old daughter of Sheriff William Curtis, was credited today with having prevented the escape from Muskingum county jail of William Gibbons, convicted slayer of a Civil war veteran.

According to the girl's father, Gibbons with the aid of an iron bar dug bricks from the ceiling of his cell and climbed into the attic of the jail late last night.

From the attic he made his way to the clothes press of the girl's room. His movements awakened the girl who summoned her father.

Sensing that he had been discovered, Gibbons made his way back to his cell and was seated on a chair when the sheriff entered. Bricks he had taken from the ceiling were found wrapped in a blanket on his bunk.

Gibbons was convicted of first degree murder in connection with the killing and robbing of Henry Clay, 62, early this week. He was the father of his companion, Louis Johns, when a jury recommended mercy. Johns is under sentence of death at Ohio penitentiary.

Report Hits Police System

ENFORCEMENT WORK LISTED AS "FAILURE"

Wickersham Commission
Charges Graft, Incompetence Defeating Law.

BLAME CROOKED POLITICS

Milwaukee Termed Only Major
City in Country Free of Corruption.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—A blanket indictment against the police forces of the country as a "general failure" was handed down today by the Wickersham commission.

In its eighth report to President Hoover, the commission charged that with few exceptions units in the system were shot through with graft and incompetence and too often were under the direct control of dishonest politicians.

It asserted without qualifications that major criminals in almost every large community are "well known to the police, but by reason of sinister influence exerted by corrupt politicians over the chief and his force, are allowed to continue their criminal careers."

The report concluded, in short, that defects in present police administration "too generally leave the citizens helpless in the hands of the criminal class."

Six Major Charges

Six major charges were brought. They follow in brief:

1. "The chief evil lies in the insecure, short term of service of the chief or executive head of the police force and in his being subject while in office to the control of politicians in the discharge of his duties."

2. "The second outstanding evil of such poor police administration is the lack of competent, efficient, and honest patrolmen and subordinate officers."

3. "The third great defect is the lack of efficient communication systems whereby intelligence of the commission of crime and description of the criminal may be quickly spread over a wide territory and as part of that, the necessary equipment in motors to pursue traces of the criminals making their escape."

4. "The well-known and oft repeated alliance between criminals and corrupt politicians which controls, in part, at least, where it does not wholly do so, the police force of our large cities, might well be taken as a primary cause of inefficiency, since it rules the head and every subordinate and lays a parof Grasshoppers.

By International News Service
DAYTON, O., Aug. 1.—Montgomery and surrounding counties today reported that the grass hoppers plaguing which caused millions of dollars in damage in western states has reached this section of Ohio.

County Agricultural Agent O. L. Cunningham admitted he was alarmed by the invasion.

Heavy damage already has resulted among grass, shrubbery, flowers, various crops and even small trees, Cunningham said.

"Should the main body of the horde reach this vicinity, all growth would be destroyed as it was in the west," he said.

Hundreds of inquiries have been received from farmers in the last few days, asking how the attack might be checked, according to Cunningham. He urged that poisoned bran mash be strewn about but warned against permitting livestock and pets to enter any location where the mixture has been placed.

RELENTLESS FIGHT URGED

Success of First Drive Cited as Cause for Continuance of Warfare.

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—A new offensive against Chicago gangsters was opened today.

It took the form of the issuance by the Chicago crime commission of a new list of "public enemies," adding 28 names to the original roster of 24 which was headed by Alphonse Capone, overlord of Chicago gangdom.

The 28 additional names were made public in a letter sent to public officials, urging that the anti-gang campaign be continued.

Among them were those of men who for years are reputed to have been pioneers in the racketeering field. They included Joe Fusco, alleged Capone lieutenant; Bernard O'Donnell, alleged beer racketeer; Anthony "Red" Kinnane, reputed hoodlum; and John "Jack" Barry, alleged labor racketeer.

Post Bureau Chief

The commission stressed that of the original 24 "public enemies," two have been slain, three were sent to penitentiaries, and five others have been convicted.

It was pointed out, five have been ordered deported, five have been deported, and five have been deported.

Chicago Police Commissioner E. J. Connelley said in a statement that the list was a "warning" to the public that the fight against the gangs was being waged.

FEDERAL MEN HEAD ROUNDUP ON TRIP HERE

Local Police and State Officers Aid Toledo Prohibition Agents.

UNDERCOVER MEN WORK

Make Buys During Stay in City; Prisoners Ordered to Court Monday.

Federal prohibition men, assisted by two state dry men and local police pounced upon the city late yesterday afternoon with the result that 13 citizens are slated for appearance in federal court Monday morning on charges of selling, illegal possession and conducting a nuisance.

Nashville in Charge

Twelve federal men and two state men all under the direction of W. M. Rankin of Toledo, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon and in two hours time, with the assistance of the local police, had placed 13 persons under arrest. Five were locked up at police headquarters where they will be held pending the arrival of United States marshals from Toledo, while the remaining eight were not brought to headquarters, but were ordered to appear in Federal court Monday morning.

Those being held at police headquarters are Marion Piper, 19, of 202 Waterloo street, Carl Roberts, 17, of 529 Davis street, Joe Frank, 34, of 1007 West Center street, Henry Cole, 25, of 704 Fairground street, and Frank Peltz, 31, of 880 Kenton avenue. Those ordered to appear in court Monday were Harry Evans of 704 West Center street, John Thrush of 697 Bellefontaine avenue, Harry Bolander of 674 Sugar street, Moody Miller of 360 Commercial street, Ross Moorhead of 844 Kenton avenue, Lana Seals of 856 Kenton avenue, Ross Galt of 107 Clair street and Anna Rice of 238 east George street.

Undercover Men Move

Because of sickness in the family, some other similar reason, the eight were not locked up at police headquarters, Rankin explained. The same consideration was extended the three women included in the list arrested. "I do not wish to be too hard on these people and in the case of the three women or where there is sickness in the family, I have ordered them to appear in court Monday," he said.

The arrests were made on evidence furnished by undercover men whom Rankin said worked in the city last week. In each case, he said, buys had been made and charges of selling, illegal possession and maintaining a nuisance, would be placed against the men and women.

Anna Rice of 238 east George street, one of the women ordered to Toledo, is a daughter of Mrs. Quintilla Allen, who was fined $300 and costs by Municipal Judge W. R. Martin yesterday when she was found guilty of a charge of illegal possession.

ASKS DISSOLUTION OF COURT ORDER

C. A. Owens Files Motion To Set Aside Divorce Action Injunction.

Modification and dissolution of an injunction restraining banks where he has deposits from permitting him to use his funds is sought by C. A. Owens in a motion filed in common pleas court this morning in the divorce action brought against him by Mrs. Isabel Chapman Owens. Mr. Owens alleges in the motion that the injunction has practically stopped his income.

Cites Six Reasons

The motion sets forth six arguments for a modification and dissolution of the injunction granted Mrs. Owens by Judge George H. Scofield Wednesday, and also states that Mr. Owens is willing to pay Mrs. Owens $500 a month for her support and maintenance during the pendency of the divorce action.

Mr. Owens asserts that he is unable to pay $833.14 taxes now due, and cannot properly conduct his business if the injunction is permitted to stand. He maintains that the quarry property at Owens will be flooded and damaged unless he is permitted by the court to pay bills for the operation of the pump and employment of a watchman.

A $20,000 home on Vernon Heights boulevard and a Pierce Arrow automobile were given Mrs. Owens by her husband, the motion says. Mr. Owens says that he offered Mrs. Owens at the beginning of their marital difficulties eight months ago, an allowance of $500 a month for her personal use, which she refused to accept.

Must Meet Obligations
Indebtedness amounting to $100,000 has been incurred by Mr. Owens in his business operations, and he must be enabled to use his income to meet these obligations to prevent dissipation and loss of property and credit, he says.

In the final argument, Mr. Owens maintains that Mrs. Owens' interests in his holdings are protected by reason of the pending suit and that there is no necessity for the injunction.

The law firms of Carhart & Warner and Mouser, Young, Mouser & Wiant represent Mr. Owens. The motion probably will be heard within a few days.

of course, in thinking, and that kind of exercise is not popular.

The best weight for physical strength is 160 to 170 pounds, between 67 and 68 inches—from a foot 7 to 5 feet 8. At greater heights leverage and the law of gravitation count against you.

In war, especially old-fashioned war, the shorter the safer. Napoleon would have been killed before he was known had his head been three inches farther from his feet.

MAYOR WALKER of New York, outraged by the shooting of five children and the killing of one of them in a prohibition bogey war, has ordered officials to shoot to kill in dealing with gangsters.

"Be the first to draw when you come upon a man whom you know to be a criminal or a racketeer and have reason to believe is armed. I want you to pull first and give it to him. And give it to him above the waist." That is the order given to his men by Mayor Walker's police chief, Commissioner Mulrooney, a policeman of many years' experience, who knows criminals, and is feared by them.

Unfortunately, in these days of profitable, organized crime, a superior, giving orders to officials under him, cannot be sure of results. The man sent out, as shown in much of prohibition enforcement, may be pursuing a criminal, and he may be protecting a business associate.

MAN INJURED WHEN AUTO HITS WAGON

Police Search for Driver of Car; Radiator of Machine Damaged.

Police are searching this afternoon for a blue Whippet convertible coupe driven by a woman wearing white. The woman drove into the rear of a wagon driven by Harry Huntman of North State street at 12:45 p. m. on the Prospect pike, injuring him and damaging the wagon.

Huntman was unable to give a reason for the accident. The road was clear, and he said that he was driving the team of mules close to the side, to avoid motor traffic. The woman started into Marion without stopping and police were notified immediately.

When she drove away he said he thought she was wearing a white uniform, but could not be sure. The radiator of her car was damaged, he said.

Huntman was thrown from the wagon seat, suffering minor injuries consisting of a cut on the side of his head and bruises to his leg. The wagon tongue was broken. He is employed on the Charles Almendinger farm near Prospect and was coming towards Marion to thresh at a farm near here.

The accident occurred about five miles south of Marion. He was taken to the Frederick C. Smith clinic in the W. C. Boyd ambulance.

"ALFALFA BILL" TAKES COMMAND

Governor William (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, of Oklahoma, is shown questioning a motorist after the chief executive arrived on the new toll bridge between Durant, Okla., and Denison, Texas, to take personal charge of his militia, stationed on the Oklahoma side in defiance of a federal court injunction. Governor Murray, attended by a guardman "protecting" the bridge, ordered the span closed in an attempt to make it free to motorists.

analyzing hand upon determined action against such major criminals."

"There are too many duties cast upon each officer and patrolman."

A sixth charge was one of failure to make proper provisions for the policing of millions of immigrants and of the influx of large numbers of Negroes to the northern cities.

Signed by 11 Members

Only 10 of the 11 commissioners signed the report. The signature of Monte Lemann, New Orleans attorney, was missing. No explanation was given nor was any individual report by him included.

Of the cities specifically mentioned in both reports, Milwaukee was the only one to receive unqualified praise. The commission cited it as "a city free from crime or where the criminal is speedily detected, arrested and promptly tried and sent on his way to serve his time." It added that "no other city has such a record."

Speaking of factors that contributed to make police departments "the plaything of crooked politicians," the swift changing of officials in New York and Chicago was called "deplorable."

Deplores Politics

The commission asserted that often the chief of police, being subject to dismissal when displeasing the mayor or the politicians who put him in office, many times was forced "to heed the admonitions of his patrons and to follow their often brutal orders to go easy on this or that criminal or criminal gang who are in alliance with his patrons."

"The public has long been sickened," the commission said, "by the usual formula periodically issued by the mayor's office whenever there is a change in that office, that the new chief has received orders to head no one in the discharge of his duties but fearlessly to protect the public against the criminal."

"They know from experience that it is not true, and if the chief were to follow such reputed directions his term, would be very much shorter than two and forty-one hundredths years (the estimated average tenure in the larger cities)."

BRIDGE CONTROVERSY NOW LOOMS IN OHIO

Texas-Oklahoma Quarrel Has Possible Counterpart in Dispute with Kentucky.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 1.—The Oklahoma-Texas bridge war may have its counterpart in an interstate bridge controversy now threatening between Ohio and Kentucky.

The commonwealth of Kentucky brought suit in Brown county, O., several weeks ago to condemn land needed for the Ohio approach to a bridge which it is building between Mayville, on the Kentucky side and Aberdeen on the Buckeye side of the Ohio river.

The Mayville Bridge company of Cincinnati, an Ohio corporation, yesterday asked the state supreme court to grant a writ of prohibition against the trial of the condemnation proceedings.

The bridge company owns the land which Kentucky needs. It could not agree with that state on a fair price. Now it challenges the right of Kentucky to appropriate the property in this state by condemnation.

The supreme court will hold a hearing on the application next Thursday and upon its decision will depend future developments in the dispute.

The Ohio-Kentucky controversy does not call for such spectacular roles as were played by the governors of Oklahoma and Texas when they called out national guardmen to bar the approaches to rival toll and free bridges. In fact, it will require no force to keep the city bridge, for it is only partly completed and until title to the approach is secured there will be a watery gap between the shore and the bridge end.

Farmers Quit Fields Near Claridon While Others Continue Threshing.

CLARIDON, Aug. 1.—The weatherman might be accused of playing favorites in this vicinity when he turned on the storm which visited here Thursday night. Farmers "call set" for threshing viewed the sky with greatest concern and when the storm had passed some had a part of their grain in the bin and others were compelled to wait for a few days.

A number of housewives, prepared for feeding the threshers were left with an oversupply of cooked food and had to preserve and dispose of it as best they could in the localities where the men were compelled to quit their work in the fields. On other farms the threshing continued without a sprinkle.

Considerable damage was done by the high wind which accompanied the rain. The newly finished garage at the Ernest Dean home, completed just a few minutes before the storm broke was completely wrecked while at the Robert Irey home south of Caledonia a brooder house was blown over. At the Case Boyer home, where two brooder houses were destroyed in a storm a week ago, the barn doors were blown off and at the Charles Warlick farm a number of buildings were destroyed.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Federal Reserve system today, in cooperation with Bank of France, a $200 credit to the Bank of England.

Those now on vacations are Rev. Lawrence A. Wood of Trinity Baptist church, Rev. S. F. Porter of Emmanuel Baptist church, Rev. G. C. Canfield of First Church of the Brethren, Rev. S. S. Hardy of St. Paul's Episcopal church, Rev. Karl W. Patow of the Prospect Street M. E. church, Rev. W. Martell of Wesley M. E. church, Rev. H. L. Oleswiler of First Presbyterian church, Rev. James M. Fisher of Lee Street Presbyterian church and Rev. Carl V. Roop of First United Brethren church. Dr. C. E. Turley of Epworth M. E. church has spent more than a week at the Kingdom Come settlement near Pineville, conducting services. He is expected home Tuesday, accompanied by Mrs. Turley who directed music and Miss Mary Heineinger and Mrs. J. F. Neidhart who accompanied to assist in the work.

To Remain at Home
Rev. Mr. Wood has planned a quiet vacation at home during the month of August with a few short trips. Rev. E. C. Pottoff of First Memorial Baptist church will fill the Trinity pulpit Sunday morning, and other supply pastors will preach in Rev. Mr. Wood's absence.

Rev. and Mrs. Hardy are spending the month of August at Saugatuck, Mich., a delightful summer resort, and in the absence of the pastor, services will be discontinued at St. Paul's Episcopal church for the month.

A trip to Colorado Springs is the vacation which Rev. James M. Fisher and his wife are taking. They expect to be gone a month or more, and during that time the preaching services will be combined with the young people's services.

at 6:45 p. m. at the Lee Street Presbyterian church.

Three at Lakeside

Lakeside and the Bible conference there has attracted Rev. Karl W. Patow, Rev. W. Martell, George and Rev. Carl V. Roop. The three pastors and their families have been at the resort for the last week and do not expect to return for another week.

In the absence of Rev. Mr. Patow Sunday morning, the Prospect Street M. E. church pulpit will be supplied by Harold Dutt of 815 Pearl street, a student at Ashbury college in Wilmore, Ky., and a member of the Oakland Heights Evangelical church.

The Epworth League of Wesley M. E. church has planned a pageant, "The Black Cross," to be given Sunday night in place of the weekly sermon of Rev. Mr. George. In the morning Rev. N. J. Riemer, local preacher will deliver the sermon.

Fulkensberger to Preach
Rev. S. F. Porter, who was so interested in his revival work at Emmanuel Baptist church last year that he did not take a vacation, has gone to Shelby for a two weeks rest and visit, accompanied by Mrs. Porter. Rev. Don R. Fulkensberger, secretary of the Ohio Pocket Testament League, with headquarters in Columbus, has accepted Rev. Mr. Porter's invitation to preach in his place both Sunday morning and night this week.

The whereabouts of the vacation spot selected by Rev. and Mrs. Oleswiler and family has not been announced. The pastor of First Presbyterian church has vacated his pulpit for a month and while he is gone, pastors from nearby cities will preach in the morning. This week the pastor of First Presbyterian church in Bellefontaine will deliver the Sunday morning sermon.

Desire Is Our Ruler

A SERMONETTE

BY LAWRENCE A. WOOD
Pastor, Trinity Baptist Church
Text, Ps. 17:4-8

OUR desires determine largely the trend of life. The writer of the Psalm had a great longing for the house of the Lord. He wanted to be engaged continually in the spirit of worship. He would be surrounded by an atmosphere of worship. Happy are those whose greatest joy comes from communion with God. Devotion that satisfies does not come when worship is treated as a patch upon the duties and pleasures of the day. The religious and the secular life are not parallel and separate, but they continually mingle and together they compose life.

The writer of this Psalm longed to be in the house of the Lord that he might "Behold the beauty of the Lord." A more glance at the Psalm reveals long and steady inspection to make an object of beauty to become one's own. It requires meditation to appropriate. "Beholding the beauty of the Lord" in worship draws one into deeper and richer experiences of union with the Lord.

The Psalmist desired also "To inquire in the temple of the Lord." He was eager to receive divine guidance and that knowledge which God only can impart. Many of life's affairs seem destined to overwhelm us unless we obtain relief through prayer. In the seventy-third Psalm we read, "When I thought to know this, it was too painful for me, until I went into the sanctuary of the Lord; then I understood their end." We receive the clue to the way of deliverance when we bow reverently in worship in God's house.

"In the time of trouble he shall hide me in his pavilion." There is a quiet place and that quietness is to be found in the midst of things that occupy and distract. A life spent in devotion has its place before me in the presence of mine enemies.

With this quietness there comes the sense of security. "He shall set me upon a rock." It is the assurance that comes from confidence in the stability of the eternal foundation. "I know whom I have believed." He knew that his faith was established upon a rock.

Such a life is pervaded with praise. Gratitude and thanksgiving, praise and adoration are poured forth continually. The devout worshiper who finds his greatest joy in the house of the Lord is quieted and strengthened by the confidence that he is securely guided and kept by his Lord. He gives expression to his joy in God's words, "I will sing praises to the Lord."

Daily Proverb—"There is nothing humbler than ambition when it is about to climb."

The city council of St. Paul, for the purpose of increasing the city's revenues, has authorized a dollar license on bicycles. Why not? Bicyclists should be made to pay some fee for the fun of knocking pedestrians off sidewalks.

Nine Pullmans filled with 200 Pennsylvania farmers rolled out of the union station in Chicago, Thursday, for a 9,000-mile vacation tour of the West costing more than $80,000. It can hardly be held that the need for agricultural relief is universal.

It is good to know that 35,000 New York City garment workers are back at work after a strike of two days' duration, but it would be far more pleasing to know that they had secured the protection against racketeering they demanded and the elimination of sweatshops.

A survey made by the Kansas City Star in twenty of the larger wheat counties of the state shows that there will be a reduction of Kansas wheat acreage of from fifteen to twenty per cent. Seemingly the Kansas wheat growers who, in the face of pleas for decreased production, increased their acreage, have learned their lesson.

Three women, one of them armed with a revolver, held up a clerk in a Chicago dress shop and got away with a $1,500 milk can and $27 in cash from the girl clerk waiting on them. Shopping in Chicago is not without its thrill.

The splendid geyser in Yellowstone park, which was supposed to have become extinct because it had been passive for thirty-nine years, erupted for five minutes one day this week, throwing a great volume of boiling water more than 100 feet into the air. It seems just any old thing is liable to happen this year.

Before sailing for Europe, Bishop James Cannon, Jr., asserted that Alfred E. Smith and John J. Rankin are determined to write their anti-prohibition views into the 1932 Democratic platform. Well, it's very largely their machine. Why should they not operate it to suit themselves?

The state's attorney has been restrained by the circuit court up in Chicago from interfering with the dog races of the Thornton Coursing club and the Sportsman's Park club, of Chicago Heights, but the court at the same time placed its ban on gambling at either place. A fat chance for dog racing, when gambling is prohibited. For what purpose does that court imagine dog racing is conducted, anyway?

China has voted $100,000 to cover the cost of Chinese participation in the Chicago Century of Progress exposition. Wouldn't you think that, with communism rampant and civil war almost constantly in progress, China had enough troubles on without bothering about a display at a world's fair?

Rather Disappointing.

Announcement was made shortly following the appointment of Colonel Woodcock as prohibition commissioner that the manner of enforcement would be changed; that the energies of the enforcement agents would be directed to the apprehension and conviction of the big fellows in law defiance.

The announcement was accepted as good news by the country as it represented an about face in the policy of the prohibition enforcement bureau. A tax-burdened public had seen millions upon millions expended for what proved very largely the running down of the small fry in the liquor game while the big ones seemed to carry on with little handicap other than the financial one they undoubtedly paid for protection.

Under the old plan, crime had been financed as never before; not only crime made such by the liquor laws, but crime of all kinds against the person and property. There was a feeling that, should the prohibition bureau make a real impression on the criminals who loom large in the liquor traffic, it would have a salutary effect as a deterrent of all crime and prove a blessing to the country.

To learn that two squads of federal agents have come here, one to secure evidence of violations of the liquor laws in local homes and the other to cite the accused to appear in the United States court to answer the charges to be based on the evidence secured by the first squad is rather disillusioning and somewhat disheartening. We do not mean that the thirteen apprehended should not be punished, if guilty, but disillusioning and disheartening because it indicates that the old time policy still obtains; that money, time and effort are being given to the apprehension of the little fellows, while those flooding the country with liquor continue to operate as of old.

Moratoria to Farmers.

The moratorium idea is highly infectious, as former President Coolidge sagely observed when President Hoover proposed a moratorium on foreign debts. It spread readily, both in extent and conception, among the farm relief group, which, already weakened by adversity, made no immediate attempt to resist it.

The proposal that a munificent government pay the farmers' debts does not stand up well under scrutiny, however. For instance, the suggestion that relief should be extended through federal land banks evidently is made without knowledge of the structure and scope of these institutions.

In the first place, the government does not own the federal land banks, as is the popular belief. True, during the early history of the banks, which were created by the federal farm loan act of 1916, most of their capital was provided by the federal government, but all this money, with the exception of a few thousand dollars, has been returned. National farm loan associations and individuals now own more than ninety-nine per cent. of the $66,000,000 worth of stock in the banks. Since the federal land bank system is built on the pledges of farmers to pay promptly the interest and installment on the principal of their loans, a general moratorium would mean simply that the farmers themselves would bear the burden. This is not the first time, however, that well-meaning theorists have failed to see that the "government" is the people, and that what obligations government incurs the people pay. It is a common error.

Another error in the reasoning of those who would help the farmer by relieving him of his debts is the supposition that the farmer would consent to such a practice, even if there were no strings attached to the aid he would receive. More than half the farmers in the United States do not have any farm mortgage debt, and a large portion of those who do would not accept help. There is moreover, a tendency to overlook the leniency of the holders of farm mortgages. As a rule they are doing all they can to keep the farmer solvent, if only for their own advantage. F. H. Kiewson, president of the Federal Land bank, of St. Paul, Minnesota, makes the following summary of the situation, with which there will be a general disposition to agree.

"Those who hold first mortgages on farms as a rule are as lenient as it is possible to be in the collection of the interest and the principal, and the relatively few farmers who are in a particularly distressful position at this time on account of low prices of agricultural commodities doubtless will be dealt with as generously as conditions permit, but this does not call for federal activities in declaring a general moratorium of farm debts of any kind."

Out near Watsonville, California, a mile-square section of the earth's surface dropped at the rate of four inches an hour Friday. Not so surprising. The bottom has fallen out of about everything else.

Big Steel Moves Cautiously.

Last April, the United States Steel corporation declared a common stock quarterly dividend of thirty-five times more than the stock actually had earned: $175 against five cents.

Tuesday, the United States Steel corporation moved more cautiously. It declared a dividend on its common stock of one dollar a share, only 8 1/2 times as much as the stock actually earned.

This dividend rate, if continued, will mean that United States Steel's common stock's annual earning power is set at four dollars until further notice. This is three dollars less than the seven-dollar level maintained since the second quarter of 1926. It is one dollar less than the five-dollar level maintained throughout the depression years, 1921-22. It amounts to a confession by the largest branch of the nation's most important industry that the depression is not going to be licked by shadow boxing.

With the announcement of a decrease in United States Steel common stock's dividend rate, comes the expected information that salaries will be "adjusted," which means they will be adjusted downward.

There is nothing unexpected, nothing to cause alarm, in the decision of the corporation to move cautiously and not to cut too deeply into a surplus which may have to supply other unearned dividends before the steel industry has the opportunity to earn money with the two-thirds of its capacity that is lying idle now. The nation's business brains finally have realized the futility of trying to conjure the depression away; they are devoting themselves now to sound reconstruction by proved business methods.

Not content with eating up the corn and wheat out in Nebraska, the grasshoppers are now said to be devouring the clothing of citizens. The Winsted liar must be back from Europe and touring America.

Signs of the Times.

Barrooms, cellars, tap rooms—everything that goes to make the proper surroundings for the dispensation of alcoholic beverages—are being installed in the new Waldorf-Astoria hotel, nearing completion in New York City. They will be sealed up "until prohibition is repealed," is the report.

Inlanders, who have been coached to believe that whatever happens to the eighteenth amendment won't happen for a long time, and may not happen at all, can be pardoned for gaping an instant.

There are some other things to consider, however. The Waldorf-Astoria is being built to last a long time. Anything might happen before it is razed. The prohibition amendment might even be repealed and reinstated again.

The owners, being smart business executives, are completely protected against sudden losses. They carry fire insurance, even though they do not expect their hotel to burn—have, in fact, made it as nearly fireproof as possible. They carry all kinds of insurance against accidents; they are prepared for all the emergencies that might happen, but probably won't. And they also are prepared for the repeal of the federal amendment concerning prohibition. Not that they really expect it will be repealed, but it might be, and it's the modern way to be on the safe side.

Editorial Opinion.

MR. SULLIVAN SCORES A BULL'S-EYE.

Replying to the Wickersham commission's criticisms of prison discipline, Warden J. J. Sullivan of Stillwater penitentiary places his finger squarely on the false premise upon which all arguments for "easier" prisons are based. He asks:

"What kind of people do these reformers think are sent to prison? Do they think they send theological students, model pupils from university classrooms, or representatives of the Kiwanis or Rotary clubs? They send us criminals, some of them murderers and cutthroats, highwaymen. I have seen fellows here who would as soon run a knife through you as look at you."

Every idealist, seeking to transform penitentiaries into pleasant recreational centers, makes the mistake of assuming that prison populations are made up of men who react to kind treatment in the same way that he himself would react. He knows that a word of admonition would be all that was needed to keep him docile, and he takes it for granted that a mere word of admonition can be similarly effective in the case of a murderous thug.

He knows, does this idealist, that he himself would not take advantage of intramural freedom of intercourse to plot murders and plan the slaughter of women and keepers, and he mistakenly assumes that such privileges would not be abused by the fellow "who would as soon run a knife through you as look at you."

The men who commonly find their way into penitentiaries are not men of the sort whose word of honor can be taken at face value; not men of the sort that repay kindness with obedience and gratitude; not men of the sort that can be trusted elsewhere than under the eyes of armed guards.

But that can not be, says your typical prison reformer. The mistake, he thinks, runs the other way, lies in the assumption by hard-boiled wardens and keepers that convicts are mostly brutes. Try soft handedness, he insists, and the results will prove that he is right.

But soft handedness has been tried, and those who have tried it—when, indeed, they have survived murderous mutinies—have lived to rue the day. The prison reformer thinks as he does, because he does not know conscientious brutes in the raw. Naturally, he does not encounter them in the assemblages he frequents. He does not find them at tea, lectures, and such. Therefore, he makes his mistake of assuming that men who murder and rob for a living are made of the same stuff, down to the blenchiness inflicted by "unfortunate environment," as are the kindly gentlemen he meets at teas and lectures.—Minneapolis Journal.

Dinner Stories.

"You will get along all right with my patients while I am on vacation," said the established doctor to his locumtenens. "Follow this rule. Ask them what they are eating—and stop it. Inquire where they are going to spend their vacation—and send them somewhere else."

"What do you think of the moratorium, Joe?" "Haven't seen her picture. Is she anything like the Bremen?"

"Isn't it wonderful how the radio has spread?" "Yes, considering that there is no law against using it."

What Will Better Marion?

The following is the answer of one citizen to the question, "What Will Better Marion?"—the second in the questionnaire circulated by Dr. Carl W. Sawyer to get a comprehensive insight into the community feeling regarding our home city, in the hope of arriving at a remedy for handicaps, if any, from which Marion may suffer. From day to day, answers of various citizens to the same question will be given publicly on this page.

1. Every person in Marion patronize home dealers.
2. Men with money do something. I have spent more money the last year and made more improvement in my business the last year than any year since I started in business. If every man with money would do this business in Marion would revive at once.
3. People stop being jealous of each other in business, but each one push forward. "Competition is the spice of life." I would hate to be in business without competition.
4. Every business man to reestablish confidence in himself and Marion and put more energy in his line. I do not receive the support of the people of Marion I should have. If it was not for the outside business I have I could not endure, but am not discouraged.

Don't Ignore Weight Losses.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

One of the most unpleasant ailments encountered in the care of infants and children is "marasmus." This condition is also spoken of as "infantile atrophy," or "simple wasting." It is shown by the infant's gradual but progressive loss of weight.

This condition of impaired health is rarely seen in the country, or where the health of the parents is good. It is more commonly found in large institutions caring for infants. Sometimes it is associated with tuberculosis and other constitutional diseases. Frequently it can only be traced to marked lack of nutrition and improper feeding.

Many cases are attributed to hereditary weakness. In spite of supervised and well-regulated feeding the child thrives poorly and fails to gain in weight.

These children present a most pathetic picture. They look old. Due to marked loss of weight the skin is wrinkled and hangs in folds. The legs are like drumsticks and the hands resemble bird-claws. These unfortunate children are often reduced to mere skin and bones.

The condition is a severe one and may prove fatal. The longer it continues the more serious the outlook. When recognized quickly and promptly checked the child may be saved.

If possible, these cases should be taken to a hospital at once. Here everything scientifically possible can be done for the child. A wet-nurse can be secured, or the best artificial feeding and care can be given.

When recovery occurs it is complete. By the time the child reaches the age of two or three he is normal and as vigorous as any child of his age.

Breast feeding should always be encouraged where possible. Marasmus is most common in bottle-fed infants. If young mothers were encouraged to nurse their infants, I believe there would be fewer cases of marasmus.

Where artificial feeding must be resorted to, a proper milk supply must be located. Exact instructions in infant feeding should be secured. In addition, the importance of personal hygiene, fresh air and sunlight can not be overemphasized.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

A.B. Q.—Would a clogged gall bladder cause itching of the body? 2.—What treatment would be necessary in this case? 3.—Are fruits fattening?

A.—Improper functioning of the gall duct would be very apt to cause itching. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question. 2.—Proper attention to the diet should do much to correct the trouble. 3.—No.

M.E.D. Q.—Is a tired, dizzy feeling in the morning due to constipation?

A.—Yes, possibly.

C.T. Q.—My hair is very thin and does not seem to grow—what would you advise? Will going hatless harm or benefit the hair?

A.—The condition of the scalp and hair usually depends upon the state of the general health. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question. Going hatless in the warm weather should be beneficial—sun and air are most beneficial for the hair and circulation.—Copyright, 1931, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medicine, hygienic and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. ## Martyrs of Science.

BY ARCHIBALD MENDELESON.

Science is a stern mistress. It is often dangerous to discover things which may eventually avert danger from others. It is often far more than dangerous. It is deadly to take the chance which science requires. Perhaps it is a question of allowing oneself to be inoculated with deadly germs, for which the antidote is not a 100 per cent. specific. If the antidote does not work, then you are gone—a noble victim, or, as the newspapers say, a martyr to science.

A remarkable, hair-raising, a blood-curdling book might be written narrating the adventures of actual or acquiescent martyrs to science, some of whom died, some recovering. A familiar illustration in this country is what is known as the "Poison Squad." These are volunteers for scientific experimentation at the federal bureau of chemistry in Washington. These are not ignorant men who, for pay or out of idle curiosity, allow themselves to be experimented on and subject themselves to dangerous risks. They are expert chemists who know what they are about when they eat various adulterated food products. The experiments are conducted under the direction of expert toxicologists, men skilled in the science of poison. And yet, the risks are often grave. The tasters sometimes become seriously ill. One of the basters of adulterated food, Robert Vance Freeman, died—all the science and skill of the expert toxicologists being incapable of saving his life.

In "Master Minds of Modern Science," Bridges and Tiltman have described a number of these dangerous experiments, chiefly made by the famous bio-chemist, J. B. S. Haldane. During the world war, Haldane and a companion were voluntarily imprisoned in a steel cylinder seven feet high and five feet in diameter. The manhole was closed and the air sucked out until the pressure corresponded to that of a mountain-top 22,000 feet high. On taking a few breaths from a cylinder of oxygen, Haldane experienced a startling series of sensations. The electric light appeared so brilliant that it seemed as if the fuse would melt, while the noise of the pumping machine engine apparently increased fourfold. The came out of the experiment safe and sound, but Haldane had recorded in his notebook that his companion appeared to be drunk.

Oxygen taken after a certain altitude is reached has the effect of making the recipients singularly quarrelsome. It is found, regardless of whether people become quarrelsome or not, that oxygen is almost a necessity about 16,000 feet. It is the belief of J. B. S. Haldane that oxygen has a great future as medicine. Indeed, he is on record as stating that, properly administered, it may have the same rate of pneumonia. But it must be given continuously, perhaps for as long as three days and nights on end, and it must not be breathed pure, for in that state it is a slow poison.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

The Governor's Salary in Ohio.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

The early governors of Ohio received a salary of but $900 a year. The duties of the early office were the light and they might continue their usual occupations, whether professional or otherwise. For some years the governors did not feel it necessary to come to the state capital to live during their incumbency.

Governor Worthington was the first governor to call attention to the fact that the duties of the governor were becoming so onerous as to require his presence at the seat of government most of the time. In the same connection Governor Worthington made the first suggestion of a governor's residence at the state capital. Not for nearly a century was the suggestion acted upon, though soon after Governor Worthington's time it became the general practice of the governors to take residence in Columbus.

The first increase in the governor's salary was made in 1822, when it was raised to $1,000 a year. In the early thirties the salary was raised to $1,500 a year, and in 1852 it was increased to $1,800. The noted Cuyahoga governor, who probably had as heavy loads of official cares to carry as any that ever sat in the office, was paid $1,800 a year.

At the close of 1865, the salary was raised to $4,000 a year, at which it remained until 1897, when the most substantial raise up to that time was made, and it was placed at $8,000, then looked upon as a very liberal salary. In 1906 the salary was raised to $10,000 a year. John M. Pattison was governor at that time, but being elected before the passage of the law he could not receive the benefit of it. Soon after its passage, Andrew L. Harris, the lieutenant governor, succeeded to the office by the death of Governor Pattison, and he was the first incumbent of the office to draw pay at the present rate of $10,000 a year.

Speaking of Roast Duck.

BY O. O. MINTYRE.

Paris—By Mail—We went back to La Tour d'Argent again this evening to dine and happily found it open. To my notion it is one of the six best restaurants in the world—New York, the Paris Ritz, Foyot's, and Hotel de Ville.

Situated on the Quai de la Tourneville on the left bank, it is the oldest restaurant in Paris having opened first in 1582 near one of the gates of the city. It has occupied its present site for 100 years. And during its nearly 400 years it has specialized in roast duck.

Duck there is a rite. It is brought to you first only half-cooked and before your eyes an expert, with loving care, carves it and completes the cooking over a chafing dish at your table side. He turns it tenderly at intervals and constantly spoons up the gravy to pour over it time and again.

It arrives on your plate a dull gray with gravy almost coal black. The white meat is served with the gravy and soufflé potatoes—nothing else. The second course is the upper joint, very dry, and a mixed salad with a dressing touched up with garlic.

The menu warns of a grande cuisine made beaucoup de temps ago. It must wait for about an hour to be served after giving the order. It was at "Tour d'Argent" during the reign of King Charles V, that forks were used for the first time. Madame de Sevigne mentions the restaurant in her letters many times.

The beautiful ladies of Henry III, Cardinal Richelieu and Henry IV here had potage made of almond milk, swans roasted on spits and crapes with plum sauce. George Sand and Alfred de Musset used to meet Alexander Dumas and Henri de Rochefort at La Tour d'Argent. Napoleon III and the Duc de Morny dined there often.

It is timbered in dull oak. There is no music and studied quiet reigns. In later years Edward VII, King Leopold of Belgium, grand dukes of Russia, Queen Marie, the Shah of Persia, such literary lights of Anatole France and Edmond Rostand and stage stars like Rene, Bernhardt and Mounet-Sully were regular patrons.

Only my innate reserve prevented me from skipping over to an adjoining table at La Tour to hug a fellow-American. Following dinner he lit a capacious pipe. After a few puffs a waiter politely informed him there were objections. The rooms was a haze of cigar and cigarette smoke. "I'm funny that way, too," boomed the American. "I object to cigar and cigarette smoke. When they are laid aside I'll put out my pipe." And he puffed on.

Paris is beginning to worry about the disintegration of Eiffel tower. The first decay in the steel has been detected and experts say that the secondary stage comes quickly and will make it a menace. How to get it down is a far greater problem for engineers than was encompassed in its construction.

We bumped into Roy Howard's son, Jack, today. He had just arrived by boat train from New York and was on his way to the United Press office. He said he will work this summer. Last summer he worked in London, and this fall will return to America for his final year at Yale. Perhaps it is a prejudice born of a long friendship with his father, but I know of no American youth whose outlook upon life is so sane and extraordinarily wholesome.

Alone in wicked Rue de La Lappe, lined with dark dance halls, this afternoon an Apache type lurching and carrying a bottle and blocking my path demanded brusquely "A sou, Monsieur?" It reminded me of one of those portentously pregnant moments in a French novel, and I thought of a flashing dirk and a crumpled body in a suddenly deserted rue. So I passed him a franc and thrilled: "Keep the change." When scared stiff I either tripped or hiccup.

A typical French Mama and Papa with what Irving Cobb calls a strain of Belgian here devalued a canopied carry-all in the Bois this afternoon. There were in all eleven children—ranging from two years to about fifteen. In five minutes Papa was dozing under a tree. Mama was knitting, four children were napping and the rest were playing a game of Rugby football. In an hour we passed them again and all were stretched out on the grass sound asleep. That was a typical French family outing.

In front of Le Berry late this evening I fell in conversation with a scientist who said he had been in Indo-China two years and completely out of touch with civilization. I noted to tell him how little he was missed.—Copyright, 1931, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, Aug. 1.—Still another senator has joined the "silver trek" to foreign shores this summer.

Now it is Claude Augustus Swanson, of Virginia, off to visit the capitals of Europe for the purpose of looking into the question of depreciation of silver.

The Virginia is one of several senators engaged in a similar mission abroad. Pittman and Odell, of Nevada, have been in the Orient for several weeks. Shipstead, of Minnesota, is already in Europe and will meet Swanson in Paris.

London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna and other cities on the continent are to be visited by Senator Swanson, the man known in Washington as one of the most colorful men "on the hill."

The "R-less Virginian" is the descriptive phrase at times applied to him because of his pronounced southern accent. Swanson is, perhaps, nearer the story book type of southerner than any other man in the senate.

Suave and courteous, he is adept at wheedling things out of the senate that another would find impossible to secure. He is noted for his ability to sense the mood of his colleagues and push for action at the most favorable opportunity.

He has the manner and appearance of a southerner. With his colleague, Carter Glass, the two present probably the most picturesque pair in the senate.

However, Swanson has little of Glass' fiery disposition and independence of political thought. Swanson is an Old Guard Democrat first, last and always.

Not that Swanson moves along in easy-going fashion at all times. He is capable of getting highly excited in the senate—as much so as any one.

On such occasions he moves around his desk excitedly, gesticulating wildly and his voice booming. His large gold nose glasses resist all attempts to keep them in position and repeatedly fall on a long black ribbon.

But when it is all over, and if Swanson gains his point, he sits down beaming. No one is capable of beaming quite as successfully as Swanson has held, and still does for the matter, high posts of responsibility in the senate. During the world war he was chairman of the senate naval committee and a right-hand man of President Wilson.

With the senate Republicans to control in the senate, Swanson becomes the ranking Democratic member of the naval and foreign relations committee.

He has been in public office the greater part of his life. He has been successively a member of the house, governor of his state, United States senator since 1914.

Electric Cookery Now Takes Drudgery of Kitchen

As Low As $15 Down Will Install

Hotpoint

AUTOMATIC ELECTRIC RANGE IN YOUR HOME

It will also install a new kitchen freedom that you will appreciate these hot summer days.

COOK ELECTRICALLY

No watching. No worry. Everything automatic. Just place your food in the oven, adjust your oven controls and forget it until ready to serve.

COOK ELECTRICALLY

For health, comfort, convenience, economy and more hours away from kitchen cares.

18 months to pay.

Demonstrations anytime without cost or obligation.

C., D. & M. Electric Co.

No Other Dollar Buys As Much As the Dollar You Spend for Electric Service.

ELECTRICITY NOW POPULAR FOR COOKING

Range Sales Already Double Total for 1930, Dealer Says.

The sale of electric ranges so far this year has been surprising in the face of general economic conditions. For the first six months of this year, sales are more than double those of the entire year of 1930. This is conclusive evidence of the increasing public approval of electric cookery. This condition is not local only, but exists throughout the entire United States.

Low Operation Costs. Sales have been stimulated, no doubt, because of the better knowledge of what electric cookery can save the housewife in the way of time, money and effort. The old "bug-a-boo"—"I would like to have an electric range, but they cost too much to operate." has been whipped to a finish. Records prove that electricity is no more expensive than any other type of fuel for cooking. But it remained for those actually owning and using electric ranges to really kill this old idea of high operating costs. "Just ask any one who owns a Hotpoint range—they can tell you, electric cookery is not expensive." is the challenge of C. D. & M. officials, dealer for Hotpoint ranges here.

Speed in electric cookery is another phase that has been developed to such a degree that now one can truthfully say "electric cookery is fast." The development of the new high-speed Calrod unit by the General Electric scientists in their "house of magic" at a cost of millions of dollars and years of research work, now gives electric range units, surprisingly fast and built so ruggedly as to make them practically indestructible, thus assuring long life and satisfactory service. This Calrod high-speed unit is the outstanding development of the century so far as electric ranges are concerned.

Cleanliness Featured. Every housewife is keenly interested in any device that saves time and effort. The electric range is the only cooking device that is absolutely clean, for you cook with heat, not with flame. Consequently, no soot, no smudge, no dirt. Just imagine being able to place your cooking utensil direct from your stove upon your best linen table cloth, without the slightest danger of soiling. In fact, electric heat is as clean as summer sunshine. Just a turn of the switch, and you have clean, penetrating dry heat, any hour of the day or night.

Completely Automatic. The operation of the Hotpoint electric range is surprisingly simple. It is not necessary to learn how to cook all over again when you purchase a Hotpoint electric range. Easy to understand directions require little or no change in your present cooking methods. But with the electric range you secure absolutely certain and greatly improved results. Luck does not affect electric cookery. Accurate thermometer temperatures under scientific control make baking and oven results dependable, certain and eliminates all guess work.

Then too, mother may have added leisure time to do those things she most likes to do. An afternoon

HOTPOINT IN MARION HOME

Above is a Hotpoint range in the kitchen provided over by Mrs. Floyd G. Browne of 418 East Church street. The range was purchased from the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Electric Co. more than a year ago and has given excellent service, Mrs. Browne states.

at golf, bridge, with the children, or what not. A simple setting of the range automatic controls enables mother to be miles away, for the afternoon or for the entire day with no worry regarding the evening dinner. Returning just in time to serve a piping hot meal, done to a turn and fit for a king. Thus the automatic Hotpoint range may be considered truly a wife-saver. With all points and advantages considered the idea—"I cannot afford an electric range" is changed to—"I cannot afford to be without an electric range."

Real Wife-Saver. A life time investment in "wife-saving" that pays dividends three times a day, and every day in the year. Could any one make a more wise and profitable investment?

You are invited to stop in at the C. D. & M. store and see the beautiful Hotpoint ranges on display there. When one considers all the wonderful attributes of electric cookery—you really owe it to yourself to learn more about this wonderful labor saving application of electrical energy.

If it is not convenient for you to stop at the C. D. & M. store, a representative will gladly call at your convenience and furnish complete details. Just phone 2324.

HOTPOINT TIMER IS GREAT AID

The new advanced 1931 models of Hotpoint automatic electric ranges which have just been received by the C. D. & M. are the last word in cooking devices.

Can Make Lily Pool Safe for Children

Many persons hesitate to build lily pools or aquatic gardens because they or their neighbors have small children whose lives may be endangered by deep water. However, it is unnecessary to build deep pools even though deep-rooted varieties are to be planted. It is a simple matter to make the deep part of the excavation in the center of the pool and then sink a tub or a box for the inside form, using the sides of the excavation for the outside form when the concrete is placed. The remainder of the pool can be made ankle-deep and, when the depression is filled with roots and soil, the entire pool will be shallow.

A new timer has been designed which serves many purposes. As an oven timer, connected with the oven regulator and thermometer it makes the oven completely automatic. It can be set to turn oven currents "on" and "off" at specified times and the oven control maintains given temperatures during the interim.

Well "Trained" Connected with the convenience out let under the cooking shelf the timer makes any appliance automatic. For instance, the timer, is "trained" to "put the coffee on" in the morning at 6:15 or 7:15, or any other time it is desired to have the coffee start "perking."

On the mantel in the living room the timer is in harmony with its surroundings and it is an attractive time piece in bedroom or hall.

The timer is just one of the many new features on the new Hotpoint electric range.

GUARANTEE ON ALL PRODUCTS

If Found Faulty or Unsatisfactory Company Will Make Restitution.

The H. O. Crawbaugh hardware store is one of the most complete hardware stores in the state of Ohio. It was founded by George H. Kling in 1837, then managed by Amos Kling and later by Clifford B. Kling. Later it became known as the Haberman Hardware Co. Nine years ago Mr. Crawbaugh purchased the store, changed the name to the H. O. Crawbaugh hardware and since that time it has been doing business under that name.

Handles Devoe Paints
One of the largest departments of the Crawbaugh hardware is the complete line of Devoe paints and painters' supplies. According to Mr. Crawbaugh, wherever you see the name Devoe you can bank on quality merchandise.

The "House of Devoe" was founded in 1754—nearly 25 years before the revolutionary war—when this country was still a British colony and New York City was little more than a village.

Through all the years the American people have bought and used Devoe products because in them they found all the beauty and protection that others could offer plus durability and an added beauty. And more people are buying Devoe products today than ever before.

The Devoe & Reynolds Co., Inc. of New York and Chicago are not only the oldest makers of paint in America, but are the largest manufacturers of brushes as well as artists supplies in this country today.

Best of Insurance
Most every home carries insurance against fire, yet fires rarely occur and insurance can never prevent them. But as long as the sun shines and rain falls, deterioration is at work lessening the value of your property and eating up your dollars.

Paint not only insures against deterioration, but actually prevents it. You could buy no better insurance than that. And, as in the case of insurance, the first consideration in paint is reliability. No where can you find a more reliable paint—a better product than Devoe lead and zinc paint. Mr. Crawbaugh says "Devoe lead and zinc paint is covered not only by the famous Devoe offer, but also by this inclusive, iron-clad guarantee."

Devoe Guarantee
Use Devoe according to directions with the understanding that if you believe it faulty at the time you put it on or afterwards in the wear the company will make satisfactory restitution.

This Devoe guarantee of satisfaction means exactly what it says. We can make this broad guarantee only because Devoe products have given unflinching satisfaction to five generations of Americans, during more than 174 years.

Whenever you want to know anything about paint or painting go to the H. O. Crawbaugh hardware at 113 north Main street. Buy paint on the basis of honest value on the basis of the beauty and protection it gives—and you will buy Devoe Lead and Zinc paint.

Devoe Famous 81 Words

Paint half your house with Devoe lead and zinc paint and paint the other half with any other paint you choose. If Devoe lead and zinc paint does not take fewer gallons and cost less money per job, we will make no charge for Devoe.

If Devoe lead and zinc paint doesn't wear one or two or three years longer—longer and better—we will give you free of charge enough Devoe lead and zinc paint to repaint your entire house.

If a painter tells you that hand-stirred "lead and oil is as good as Devoe lead and zinc paint"—ask him if he will paint the other half of your house on the same basis as Devoe's famous 81 words!

Earnings High for Ohio Building, Loan Companies

Ohioans saving for homes of their own or for the purpose of making it possible for others to finance owned-homes during the past year have earned the title of "shrewd investors," according to James A. Devine, executive secretary of the Ohio Building Association League, who has just announced that stockholders and depositors in home financing institutions in Ohio shared in the distribution of $62,000,000 in interest and dividends during the past 12 months.

Earning High
Earnings of savings and loan companies for the last 12 months are placed at $90,000,000. Figures just announced by the Ohio Building Association League show that stockholders in building, loan and savings companies for the 12-month period ending July first have earned dividends amounting to $34,000,000, while the funds of depositors have earned $28,000,000 in interest.

"In other words, stockholders and depositors in Ohio's 800 home financing institutions had earnings of $62,000,000 during a time when investors in many other lines of business saw their earnings greatly curtailed or entirely suspended," Devine's statement points out. It also shows that building, loan and savings companies added $8,000,000 to their reserve funds, now standing at approximately $60,000,000 and which are maintained solely to absorb losses.

The statistical report on dividends and interest for the period ending July 1 indicates that building and loan is one of the most stable of businesses and that the patrons of these associations can be sure that time honored dividend and interest dates will continue to be paid.

Dainties

THE pathway of one possessed of much avoidupolis is a hard one to travel these hot days. It's really a toss-up whether to fight it out with the weatherman or give up the ghost and "go in lemons" in patronizing the ice cream stands. And to those who wax plumper in spite of the sizzling heat, I say, "did you ever in your life see so many tempting things in the way of cooling, weight-reducing goodies?" The real test comes though, (and if you all tight through it you deserve the full-sized watch pocket,) when the "dainty vender" saunters through the office and those lean, built-on-greyhound-lines co-workers swarm around him like ants at a picnic. And did you ever notice, and it's a real endurance test, how slowly the dispenser of these viands walks through, giving you all the time in the world to break down and buy?

It Might Be

THOSE who guide the destinies of the fashionable and would-be fashionable, have upset things considerably with their insinuations of this and that and their plain, outspoken announcements of bustles, ruffles, hour-glass waists, and we admit it is something not to be regarded lightly. Imagine exchanging these comfortable almost lineless frocks for one with darts and gussets. And wring your hands over this picture yourself laying aside those comfortable alphas for a petticoat with tucks, embroidery, insertion and ye, gods, perhaps a dust ruffle. And the hats! To be sure for the most part they are about like peas in a pod, but we like 'em and can have a new one about every blue moon, if we are careful. But what will we do when it comes to laying down the price of a month's rent for a willow plume? And don't forget, some of you have done it.

A Suggestion

IT doesn't take a wiseacre to guess that most folks go into a restaurant to eat and for the most part, eat they do, and more than they should. However, it gladdens the heart of the "restaurantier" when the figures from the top to the bottom of the check and it's my humble opinion that here's a "line" that has been overlooked by these business folks. The dear public, that is the female of the species, is more or less curious about what is in the salad, just how the pudding is made and what not, and aren't we all just a little bit susceptible to suggestions? And by that same token isn't it true that one's appetite is whetted, in fact doesn't one get positively ravenous reading a cookbook? So, why not edit a little cookbook of the day's offerings, present it with the menu, give the customer plenty of time to peruse same and then, when the waiting ring with the jingling of the cash register bell, (patent applied for.)

RECRUITS PROVIDE A LOT OF PUNCH FOR BRAVES AND PIRATES

Rookie Leads Bucs to 5-0 Win Over Cincinnati; Boston Cops Thriller.

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR., Associated Press Sports Writer

Every baseball season brings a certain number of experiments with new players for old teams and the 1931 National league campaign is perhaps not able for the trials which have proved successful.

The Boston Braves and Pittsburgh Pirates, apparently doomed to the second division, furnish a couple of outstanding examples of such experiments. Boston started the season with a good many doubtful players and found after a month or so that there still was a weak spot at third base. More players were tried and found wanting until finally Billy Urbanski was secured.

Pittsburgh needed among other things, another Waner for the outfield. None was available and the Pirates limped along until they got Forrest Jensen from Newark. He apparently fills the bill.

Well illustrated The success of these experiments was illustrated in yesterday's games. Urbanski scored the run that broke up a thirteen inning duel between the Braves and the New York Giants. He came home on a double by Ted Worthington, another of the season's "experiments," who also contributed a homer to the 4 to 2 triumph.

Jensen led Pittsburgh's hitting as the Pirates defeated Cincinnati 5 to 0. He cracked out a double and two singles in four times at bat and drive in three counts.

Brooklyn and Chicago, yesterday's other National league winners, also had to use the trial method in getting their lineups settled this season. The Robins began climbing into the pennant fight just about the time they settled on Gordon Blads and Neal Finn for their shortstop-second base combination. Finn joined in the parade yesterday with three hits but it was the old reliable, Frederick Blaisdell and Herman who cut loose in the ninth inning and produced the runs that beat the Phillies, 6 to 4.

Taylor Leads Cubs Chicago started the season with Danny Taylor on the bench but he has proved an important cog in their attack in recent games. Danny cracked out two triples and a single in three official times at bat and scored four runs yesterday as the Cubs trounced the Cardinals 10 to 3 to even their series in St. Louis. The victory put Chicago into second place once more.

Only one game was on the American league schedule yesterday and it had little bearing upon the pennant race. The New York Yankees clipped a half-game off the margin of Philadelphia and Washington held over them by taking a 4 to 1 decision from the Boston Red Sox.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK, Sports Editor, The Star

Standings in the Commercial softball league were again thrown into something of a turmoil yesterday as the Kappas downed the Serv-U-Wel Grocers 4 to 3 and the Prospect Firemen squeaked out a 1-0 victory over the General Excavator. The Kappas victory catapults the Grocers out of a deadlock for first place into third in the standings. Prospect now holds first place undisputed but is only a half game up in front of the Kappas resting in second. The standings can very easily be thrown into a two or three way deadlock again in the next two weeks inasmuch as the three

PLAY! DON'T TALK!

In an effort to curb the apparent increase of arguments over decisions of umpires in Marion softball games, the city softball commission has issued orders to all umpires to tolerate no arguing on the field. Umpires have been instructed, starting Monday, to eject from the game at once and without warning any player who refuses to abide by a decision without delay. Furthermore no player ordered from the field will be allowed to return until the commission grants permission for his return.

The commission does not issue this order as a result of any major difficulty but as a result of a minority of players who insist on disputing decisions of umpires. This order will be rigidly adhered to by all officials for the rest of the season. Play Ball!

Hollywood Girls Play at Lincoln Park on Sunday

If anyone in Marion who is sentimentally inclined wants to get just about the best possible entertainment for their money the place for them Sunday afternoon between the hours of 1:00 and 4:00 p. m. is at Lincoln park. There are two ball games scheduled for the park at this time, the first between Moral and Columbus Hilliards of the Rural Community league and the second between Moral and the Hollywood movie stars girls' team. Which one will produce the best baseball is rather problematical. It all depends on which way you look at it.

The first game of the double header is called for 1 p. m. and second is expected to get under way sometime near 3:00 p. m. The hurlers for the first game have not been named by Manager McIntire of Moral. It is expected that either Roseberry or Fetter will be on the mound. Koontz will probably be behind the bat.

The conflict between Moral and the Hollywood girls are expected to prove the major attraction of the afternoon. For three months now the girls have been touring the land of the free and the home of the brave packing spectators in parks like sardines are packed in a can. It wouldn't be surprising if they did the same thing at Lincoln park Sunday. They are being touted as a bunch of real ball players and also good entertainers.

As an added attraction Miss Vivian Pierson, a Minneapolis beauty, who this year was crowned Miss America is listed as a member of the troupe of girls. Miss Pierson doesn't play ball however.

A number of added attractions besides the two ball games have been arranged for the entertainment of the spectators.

First Foals Make Poor Horses? Look at Mate!

By The Associated Press

LEXINGTON, Ky.—Race horse breeders around here are not as certain as they once were that first foals seldom develop into first class racing machines.

The reason is the great triumphs this year of A. C. Bostwick's Mate, the twice-conqueror of Twenty Grand.

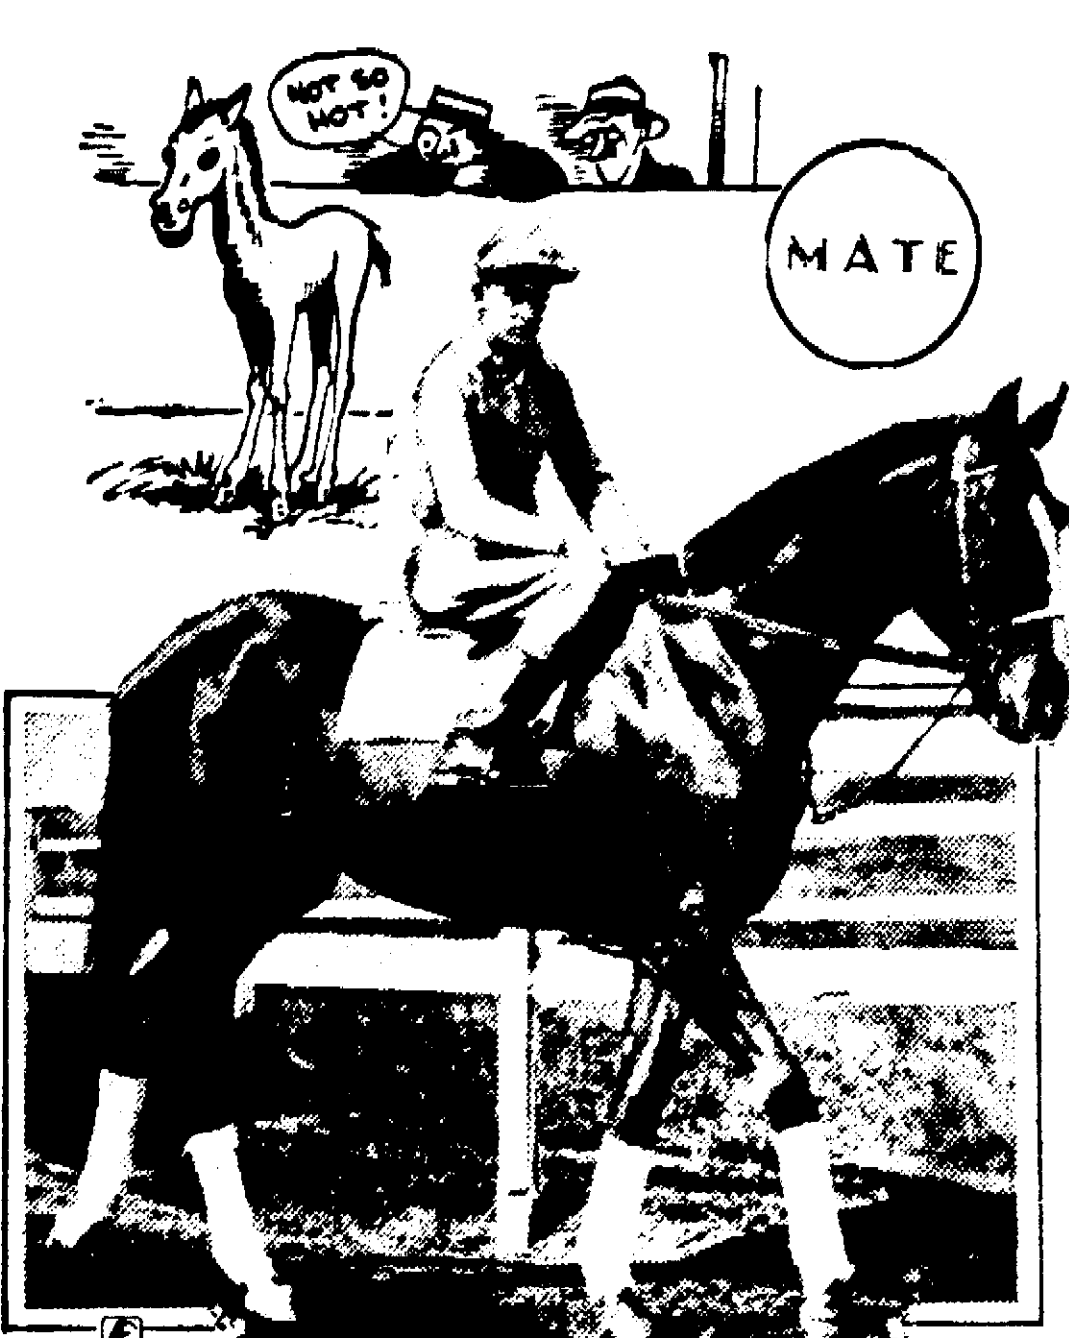

Mate is the first foal of Killashandra, brood mare quartered near Lexington. When Mate was born three years ago, it is admitted he was as ungainly a foal as is found among thoroughbreds.

Yet this same ungainly first colt developed into a sleek three-year-old which this year dashed through to three brilliant victories, and is likely to become one of the great money-winners of all time.

Already Mate is ninth in the list, and stands a fine chance of moving up to third or fourth place before the end of the 1931 season.

Mate's purse of $73,650 from the Arlington classic brought his earnings for the year up to $173,650, and his total winnings as a two-year-old and a three-year-old to $232,775.

He had previously won the Preakness and the American derby and took third money in the Kentucky derby.

A. C. Bostwick's Mate did more than startle the spectators when he ran away from Twenty Grand in the Arlington classic. He confounded race horse breeders who claim that first foals seldom are top-notch performers. Mate is the first son of Killashandra, Kentucky brood mare.

FAIRGROUND CIRCUS HOMS WITH ACTIVE AS RACE TIME NEARS

Officials Report Increasing Interest in Events; Horses Arriving Daily.

The Marion county fair today commenced to take on extra air of activity as the local 1931 meeting of the Ohio Ship harness races. Still it was being rapidly filled as it reached the oval from widely arated points.

Race fanciers who are looking forward to seeing the first races ever staged on a local track will have an opportunity to get some idea of how the looks when the incandescents turned on. Installation of the lighting system will be completed sometime today and a test of the apparatus at 8 p. m. The lights were turned on last night but the complete set will be in operation tonight.

Race officials have reported a decided increase in pre-race interest among local fans this week, leading to a belief that attendance records may be knocked for a next week. Reservations have steadily coming in for box seats the entire week. The cut in sliced general admission cost half of the price charged at mer meets is also expected to bring the way for a more constant coming of the turnstiles.

Secretary Frank Foster of local racing association expects at least 200 horses to be quartered the track before the opening of inaugural race on Monday. Stable room will be taxed the if this number arrives but plans being made to afford temporary stables for the horses.

All races will get under promptly at 8 p. m. With the exception of one night there will be three events on each card. On Wednesday night an extra race will run, bringing the total for the night to four. In event of rain the races on any night events of that night will be postponed to Saturday.

Y PROGRAM WILL NOT BE CURTAILED

Secretary Says Physical Department Will Continue To Operate.

The physical program of the Y. M. C. A. will not be curtailed by the resignation of F. O. Rudolph, physical director, Secretary E. N. Hale announced today. The physical program will be carried on next winter practically the same as before, and will be in direct charge of a trained supervisor, Mr. Hale said.

Although his connection with the Y. M. C. A. as physical director ended today, Mr. Rudolph will continue at the Y as part time director and as playground supervisor until he is permanently located elsewhere.

Complete plans for the physical work during the ensuing winter have not been made, but Y members can be assured that the swimming classes, the gym classes for men and boys and other physical activities of the association will continue on a par with former years, Mr. Hale said. The physical department is now drafting plans for the coming winter, and will announce these plans in the near future.

Miss Rhea King will continue to supervise the classes for women and girls.

Mr. Rudolph now is in charge of playground work in the mornings and swimming classes in the afternoons.

"Can a Can for Charity" Plea of Club Women

"Can a can for charity?" This "Three C" slogan has been adopted by the Marion County Federation of Women's clubs as their civic battle cry for the remainder of the canning season.

Mrs. H. K. Mouser, federation president, has worked out a plan whereby each housewife may do her bit towards relieving the needy of the city this winter.

While the housewives are canning their fruits and vegetables, Mrs. Mouser suggests that they can a few extra pints or quarts for charity. With the overabundance of garden product this year, some of it will go to waste, Mrs. Mouser believes, and it is this over-supply that she wishes conserved for the needy.

The Marion Community Fund is cooperating with Mrs. Mouser in her most recent plan to relieve suffering among the poor when winter comes.

Miss Mildred Lombard, assistant secretary of the Community Fund will receive all canned goods sent to her and will see that it is properly stored until winter. The canned stuffs should be sent to Miss Lombard at the Y. M. C. A., or Y. M. C. A. employees will call for it at the homes.

The unemployed are making worthwhile progress in the community canning kitchens also sponsored by the Federation of Women's clubs. The kitchens, open each Thursday from 9 until 10:30 a. m., supply the women with jellies or can rubbers, to do their own canning, or else take them to one of the kitchens and teach them the art of food packing their vegetables. Mrs. Louis Uhl is chairman of the home economics department directing the kitchens.
